

FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 25.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE EVENING
EDITION (Including Postage),
PER MONTH, 30c.; PER YEAR, $3.50.

The following comparison is an exact record of the actual, regular, bona-fide editions of THE WORLD printed during the week preceding and the week following the last election:

	Week before election.	After election.
Sunday	267,300	265,500
Monday	262,510	263,540
Tuesday	257,000	257,500
Wednesday	258,000	257,940
Thursday	253,600	254,250
Friday	260,180	271,860
Saturday	256,000	258,070
Weekly and Semi-Weekly	107,420	107,060
Totals	1,922,920	2,170,900

We, the undersigned, the paper manufacturers who supply the white paper used by the New York WORLD, hereby certify that we have carefully examined the above statement of circulation, and solemnly swear that it corresponds with the amount of white paper supplied by us, used by THE WORLD and charged up to them (in accordance with our method of charging THE WORLD EACH DAY ONLY THE PAPER ACTUALLY USED AND PRINTED) during the two weeks specified.

BULKLEY, DUTTON & Co.,
by DAVID G. GABRIELANT, YORK HAVEN PAPER CO.,
SUSQUEHANNA WATER-POWER
AND PAPER CO.,
GLAZIER PAPER MILL CO.,
by WM. B. DILLON,
Manager of Sales,
W. H. PARSONS & Co.,
by W. H. PARSONS.

State of New York, City and County of New York, ss.
I, DAVID G. GABRIELANT, of the County of New York, do hereby certify that the above statement of circulation of the New York WORLD, published by the Press Publishing Company, is a true and correct statement of the circulation of the said paper during the two weeks specified.

ADVERTISING RATES.

(Average Measurement.)
Ordinary, 25 cents per line. No extra price for acceptable display. Business or Special Notices, opposite editorial page, 50 cents per line. Reading notices, second or third page, 10 cents per line. First page, $1.50 per line; fourth page, $1.25 per line; inside page, $1 per line.

The rates for advertising in the Daily World of that day apply to the Evening Edition. No extra charge for that day apply to the Morning Edition.

A NON-PARTISAN REFORM.

The movement to restrict the use of money in elections and to have the State provide the ballots should receive the support of honest men of all parties.

It is essentially a non-partisan reform.

Democracy is government by the people. But the people do not in fact govern when bosses rule and money decides the elections.

Republicanism is equally the rule of the people—a simple, inexpensive, direct system of ascertaining and obeying the people's will.

In exercising the right to say whom the people may vote for, the professional managers of nominations hold three-fourths of the power. When they supplement this with bribery the servants become masters.

Electoral reform must precede all other reforms.

MR. PERCIVAL'S REPORT.

Mr. PERCIVAL, the Papal Envoy to Ireland, makes a remarkable and apparently inconsistent report as a result of his investigations.

He recognizes that the Irish cause is "intrinsically just and sacred." He balances this with the extraordinary assertion that "England for the last half century has resolutely endeavored to make every reparation for the past."

He reaches the conclusion that Ireland is "not ripe for Home Rule." But alien rule has been an unmitigated failure. The Irish people are overwhelmingly in favor of Home Rule. Experience has demonstrated its expediency. Justice demands its concession. The time is always ripe for justice.

Mr. PERCIVAL's report is not likely to be as off on troubled waters.

WHAT THEY ARE AFRAID OF.

A protectionist organ remarks that "the Democrats are afraid of the tariff."

A war tariff of 47 per cent, maintained after twenty-two years of peace, and ten years longer than it was needed for either protection or revenue, is enough to alarm any friend of just taxation and economic government.

And yet the Democrats are not "afraid" of it. What they do fear is the effect upon the finances and upon business interests of a surplus revenue that is now pouring into the Treasury at the rate of over $100,000,000 a year, with no means of outlet except in recklessly extravagant appropriations.

The Democrats, representing the people, do fear the result of perpetuating for another generation this extortionate taxation for the benefit of monopolies and tax-eaters.

And they propose to stop it.

BETTER STAY AT HOME.

If LOUIS VIERCKE, of Munich, Germany, knows when he is well off he will stay at home, rather than come to this country, and "assume the leadership of the Anarchists" in a new bomb-throwing crusade.

The American people, native and adopted, are abundantly capable of taking care both of their own institutions and of alien agitators who seek to destroy them.

If LOUIS VIERCKE does not know this, some friend should pilot him, upon his arrival, to the graveyard where four dynamites lie with broken necks and a fifth with his neck saved by suicide.

American remedies for American wrongs is the fixed sentiment of the people.

REPAIR THE AVENUE.

Every citizen in New York except the railroad schemers and a few real-estate speculators have an interest in keeping Fifth Avenue clear of all kinds of railway tracks.

It is the only longitudinal thoroughfare that remains in a decent condition for processions, parades and promenades. It is the only avenue left for comfortable driving. Its loss would be seriously felt by the great number of people in moderate circumstances who have a fondness for the reins. It does not matter so much to the rich, for they have leisure to drive on the remoter boulevards.

Fifth avenue already has stages. There are surface and L lines on either side. Horse-cars on Fifth avenue would not relieve the pressure for rapid transit nor materially increase the accommodations of the people who use them.

We may have to give Fifth avenue up to trade in time, but let us keep it clear of rails as long as possible.

GRANT'S FITTLE.

The embarrassments of President GRANT culminating in his resignation teach one lesson that deserves to be heeded everywhere.

There were no charges against his personal integrity or ability. No one questioned his devotion to the Republic. Nepotism was the one thing that blighted his administration and political prospects.

Serious charges and damaging evidence were brought against his son-in-law. Instead of urging thorough investigation and punishment, if necessary, President GRANT tried to avoid it and shield WILSON, apparently because he was his son-in-law. This was the pit into which he fell.

In guarding public interests and exposing and punishing corruption a public servant should know neither relative, friend nor partisan adherent.

ATTEMPTING THE IMPOSSIBLE.

Atlanta will vote to-morrow on the question of license or no license.

The campaign has become superheated. It is hot water vs. "fire-water." The color line is obliterated, party lines are broken and tangled, sex is forgotten and religious people are divided into opposing camps.

But whichever way the vote shall turn, the whistle-betting will go right on. It is only a question of drinking openly or on the sly. No minority of the people will ever permit the majority to dictate to them what they shall drink.

NEW YORK AND VIRGINIA.

The Tribune claims that "when Virginia is again represented in the Senate by two Democrats, that will not make it a Democratic State if an honest count can be had."

There is no reason to believe that the vote in Virginia is not as free and the count as fair as when MANROSE and his tools controlled the election machinery.

But the Tribune's rule applied to New York works perfectly. This State is misrepresented by two Republicans in the Senate, and by a Republican majority in the Legislature. For six years in succession the Democrats have carried the State. And yet, by refusing to provide for a reapportionment, the Republicans have maintained a gerrymander that leaves them in control of the Legislature by practically disfranchising tens of thousands of Democratic voters.

And yet they talk of a "full vote and a fair count!"

A NEW HOME FOR BONG.

The laying of the corner-stone of the new building of the New York Maennerchor yesterday marks an encouraging development of public interest in musical organizations in this city.

The German singing societies are among the most excellent and practical schools of music. They have trained and graduated many of the finest singers that ever graced the operatic stage.

The growing prosperity of societies like the Maennerchor will afford the basis needed for the grand superstructure of a national conservatory of music.

Editor McCLELLAN's despatch from Washington, shimmered down, indicates a hope that the taxes will be reduced some $80,000,000 at the coming session, upon the basis of a compromise long advocated by THE WORLD, securing free tobacco for the poor and lower duties on some of the prime necessities of the people. If the ought to be shall be, this will be done.

HENRY GRONOX puts another shaft in the bull's-eye in attacking the coal monopolists in Pennsylvania and the short-weight coal dealers in this vicinity. Mr. GRONOX always bends his bow with vigor. What a pity that he wastes so many arrows by firing in the air at the unattainable and undesirable.

The statue of "The Puritan," just unveiled at Springfield, Mass., represents its subject as "on his way to church." A statue of the Puritan descendant, if equally true to fact, would represent him on his way to a race, a game or a prize-fight.

Mr. BLAINE and Mr. MORTON have been dining together in Paris. They may not be recognized as such there, but they really belong to the party of the Left—the Got Left.

Untaxed whiskey and war-taxed food, fuel and clothing may be a good Old Whig campaign cry. But it is not Democracy, either ancient or modern.

After all, one can no more do up his Thanksgiving for a year in one day than he can make one big dinner last him for a twelvemonth.

This is Evacuation Day. It would be an appropriate occasion for the Anarchists, who are so dissatisfied with our institutions, to get out.

In honor of YALE the proper cap hereafter will be to paint the town blue. The news did this in Cambridge yesterday.

Comptroller LOW apparently does not think that the extravagant claims of aqueduct contractors will hold water.

These officers of rank in the Japanese navy are staying at the Westminster: Vice-Admiral Viscount Katsurama, Commander G. Yamamoto and Chief Paymaster K. Murakami.

Grapes and Truffles.

Thimbles are now worn when eating grapes to prevent the fingers from becoming stained; but on all other occasions, and among society ladies who really know what's what, the wearing of a thimble is considered "low."

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

ACTORS ARE SO ENTERTAINING!

"Ah," said a meek young man, with verdure clad, as we stood talking in front of the Union Square Hotel the other day, "what interesting people actors are! They must have such an entertaining fund of conversation. If I knew plenty of them I don't think I should want any other kind of acquaintances."

The bland ignorance of this uninitiated youth touched me. I felt sorry for him, but was consoled that nothing on earth would satisfy him on the subject of actors unless he met a few.

"Young man," I said, "I know a great many actors, and I will live; come up Broadway with me this morning and we'll encounter a few. You are right in saying they are entertaining creatures. You shall listen to the witty effervescence of their talk under my protecting wing. You shall revel in the vast storehouses of their knowledge and back in the sunshine of their wisdom."

Feeling that I had done rather nicely in this extemporaneous remark, I tucked my arm in his and together we set forth on our promenade. It was a deliciously autumnal day, the air was fresh, the sunshine pleasant, and the indications were that the profession would be out in force.

"Ah, how do you do, Frank?" I said, as we confronted a clean-shaven youth at the corner of Seventeenth street, "you're looking well."

"Feeling first-class," was the answer. "Say, old man, we did a fine business at Peoria last week. I made a great hit as Romeo. Papers and my tragic force was overwhelming. Had seventeen calls before the curtain!"

This went on for five minutes. Frank chatted in his truly intellectual manner and we listened. When the five minutes were up I gently pinched the sleeve of my companion and we stroiled on. I said nothing, neither did he. Silence is eloquent occasionally.

At the Fifth Avenue Hotel I stumbled upon a gray-haired fellow in a cap and overcoat. "Why, Arthur," said I, "I thought you were in Chicago this week?"

"Dear boy, I returned yesterday," he chirruped. "Did splendidly at McVick's. When I came out in the second set, you know, in that swell dress suit I assure you I paralyzed the audience. Couldn't speak for two minutes they applauded so."

The campaign has become superheated. It is hot water vs. "fire-water." The color line is obliterated, party lines are broken and tangled, sex is forgotten and religious people are divided into opposing camps.

But whichever way the vote shall turn, the whistle-betting will go right on. It is only a question of drinking openly or on the sly. No minority of the people will ever permit the majority to dictate to them what they shall drink.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

THE EVENING WORLD'S Thanksgiving paper scooped the field, as usual.

WESTCHESTER WANTS IT ALL.

HUSTED AND ROBERTSON COMBINE AGAINST PLATT AND THE STATE FOR SPOILS.

Several Politicians would Like to Beat Husted for Speaker, but Carry Him Through Again—Will Working the Wire to Elect Fremont Cole—The Next Legislature.

ALBANY, Nov. 24.—The politicians and corporations are very much exercised just now trying to find out who will become Speaker of the House and President of the Senate. The candidates for both houses are few and select. If it was left to the politicians Mr. Husted would not be selected as Speaker. His willingness to please everybody before the session of the Legislature, when votes were needed, was only overcome by his willingness to please nobody afterwards.

To the corporations, however, Mr. Husted sings a different tune. He is their friend, their ally, their guide. He devotes all his time to assuaging their grievances, legislatively speaking; he can rely upon more of them for assistance than any other man in the State; he is ready at all times to contribute his influence, his voice, his vote and his friends to help their cause along.

Mr. Platt was made enough, and it is clear that so long as he has any influence he will sling it against Husted. That time has now come. Platt's sing consists of Fremont Cole, a youthful but bearded barrister to the County Court. Westchester candidate for Speaker last year, but brought his boomlet to Husted's feet.

Out of the seventy-two Republicans in the new Assembly, Cole claims forty and so does Husted. Cole is a brilliant lawyer and a personable man, and Husted is operating through emissaries of the New York Central Railway, who are at work in every district represented by a Republican. Cole's friends recently attempted to work a little scheme by declaring that Platt and Husted had started in on a war of extermination against Husted and his Westchester constituency, Judge Robertson. It brought Husted several votes unwelcome.

Cole has much to learn in politics and will know more after the Speakership canvass closes. As for Husted, every trick, device, maneuver and business known to politics and legislative operations he is the master of.

The Senate contests depend upon the Speakership fight. Here are the combinations: Anti-Platt—For Speaker, James William Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

For President of the Senate, William Henry Robertson, of Westchester. It is Westchester against Platt and the State.

HOW MRS. CLEVELAND ANSWERS LETTERS.

She seldom Disappoints a Correspondent—Haggars Shut Out.

From Harper's Bazar.
Mrs. Cleveland, on her return from her long trip in October, lost no time in running many of the duties that fall to her lot as mistress of the White House, or which she has established the practice of discharging, among them the self-imposed task of answering, so far as she can, the pile of letters addressed to her, which had accumulated during her three weeks' absence. Of course, there are letters directed to her which she never sees. It speaks volumes in proof of the number of applicants to the President and her wife for money that it has been found necessary to have lithographed a formula of reply to letters making such requests, to be signed, filed up, and forwarded by one of the clerks. The letter (lithographed, with names and dates only written to suit each case) reads about as follows:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C.
Mr. (Mrs.) (Miss) _____
To Mrs. Cleveland has been opened by me. In view of the impracticability of the President or Mrs. Cleveland responding to the numerous letters from their generosity, have thought it best not to call your letter to her attention.

Very respectfully,
Private Secretary.

It is a rule, rarely if ever broken in any of the departments and bureaus of the Government at Washington, as well as in the Executive Mansion, that all letters received which do not in themselves violate the rules of courtesy shall be answered in some manner, even if only to acknowledge the fact that they were received.

Mrs. Cleveland, on whom no official obligations rest, voluntarily follows this rule of replying to letters. Not only does she answer them, but she is very prompt, too, in writing her answers to letters whenever practicable, and has remarkable facility in expressing herself. Her letters are so written so that they are not only correct, but are ready detected.

On another occasion he indulged in a similar remark, at a safe distance, at this time he was traveling in a crowded stage-coach when the driver struck him to rehearse a scene in which he was to personate the part of a sick man. Suddenly his visage became, as it were, decomposed; his eyes grew large and staring, his mouth fell open, and his body doubled up, and he sighed and groaned most heartrendingly. All his fellow-travelers regarded him with fear and astonishment. He was seized with black cholera, and on the point of death; the coach stopped, and he was about to be carried out of the coach, when the driver, judging that he had gone quite far enough, and delighted with his success, gradually became himself again. The fellow-travelers, however, were not so easily deceived, and they remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding an explanation. Suddenly the driver changed his appearance, and he was no longer the same man. A few minutes previous, but a confirmed idiot, unconscious of what he had done. The driver, however, was not so easily deceived, and he remained with him, watching him, and demanding